

FOSCALCI

The return of an icon

Foscari is the updated re-edition of a Broggi 1818 classic: the 34 collection, an iconic cutlery featured in catalogues from the early 1900s.

The design respects the original features of the model, whilst the choice of material, the range of finishes and the workmanship open up the possibility of new interpretations, designed for contemporary tables.

Yesterday, today.

From the original nickel silver, a copper-zinc-nickel alloy with silver plating, to stainless steel, a new material for a design that creates a break with the past, opening up space for new interpretations.

The choice of a new material is the main feature of Foscari: almost a provocation, inviting a contemporary rethink of the mise en place for which these cutlery items were designed.

A symbol of contemporaneity and versatility, stainless steel speaks to the present, becoming the emblem for a modern idea of elegance at the table.

On contemporary tables

Memory of the past, look to the future.

Thanks to the contrast between classic lines, modern materials and trendy finishes, Foscari cutlery represents a proposal of big impact for today's tables.

The key words are reinterpretation, challenge, provocation. Foscari preserves the value of the brand heritage, infusing new life into it and new possibilities, in order to find its place in the modern contexts of restaurants and boutique hotels, where minimalist furnishings and essential design details can enhance the lines of this evolved Broggi 1818 classic model.

Space for interpretation

The fineness of the skilfully chiselled details opens up to various variations with a contemporary flavour, thanks to the choice of special finishes that can diversify the look of the cutlery.
